

CRJU1109 - Law Enforcement Behavioral Science

Credits:	3 (3/0/0)
Description:	This course is devoted primarily to Minnesota Peace Officer Standards and Training objectives, including but not limited to the following areas: cultural awareness, stress management, domestic abuse, crisis intervention, communication, bias-motivated crimes, victims, ethics and human behavior.
Prerequisites:
Corequisites:
Pre/Corequisites*:
Competencies:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Demonstrate an understanding of victims and victims' rights.</li> <li>2. Explain domestic family abuse along with effective intervention and prevention strategies.</li> <li>3. Relate the essential characteristics of leadership.</li> <li>4. Analyze ethics in criminal justice and ethical situations common to criminal justice employment.</li> <li>5. Demonstrate various means of effective communication important to criminal justice.</li> <li>6. Examine positive and negative stress in criminal justice employment and effective strategies for dealing with negative stress.</li> <li>7. Interpret the concept of bias-motivated crime and living and working in a diverse culture.</li> <li>8. Explore communicating effectively with a diverse culture.</li> <li>9. Analyze crisis intervention skills necessary for criminal justice practitioners.</li> <li>10. Examine basic personality development in terms of the scientific research of Freud and Erikson.</li> <li>11. Summarize the symptoms and strategies for dealing with posttraumatic stress disorder.</li> <li>12. Investigate the symptoms and short-term strategies for dealing with various abnormal personality types.</li> </ol>
MnTC goal areas:	None

*Can be taking as a Prerequisite or Corequisite.