

ADMM1110 - Medical Documentation I

Credits:	4 (2/2/0)
Description:	This course covers the fundamentals of healthcare documentation and medical record production, legal and ethical issues and responsibilities, software usage and utilization of medical references in healthcare-related communication and research.
Prerequisites:
Corequisites:
Pre/Corequisites*:
Competencies:	<ol> <li>Explain the various reports found in medical records.</li> <li>Examine legal issues pertaining to health information and documentation practices.</li> <li>Utilize various medical and English references such as dictionaries, medical word books and online pharmaceutical resources.</li> <li>Analyze ethical issues pertaining to health information and documentation practices.</li> <li>Demonstrate the ability to differentiate content of the seven basic report types.</li> <li>Explain the importance of healthcare documentation.</li> <li>Utilize computer technology to accomplish tasks in a medical office.</li> <li>Display the ability to communicate in written medical language.</li> <li>Display professional work habits.</li> <li>Demonstrate proper grammar and punctuation in healthcare-related communication.</li> <li>Demonstrate methods of entering information in an electronic health record.</li> <li>Retrieve information from medical records.</li> </ol>
MnTC goal areas:	None

*Can be taking as a Prerequisite or Corequisite.