

CRJU1109 - Law Enforcement Behavioral Science

Credits:	3 (3/0/0)
Description:	This course is devoted primarily to Minnesota Peace Officer Standards and Training objectives, including but not limited to the following areas: cultural awareness, stress management, domestic abuse, crisis intervention, communication, bias-motivated crimes, victims, ethics and human behavior.
Prerequisites:
Corequisites:
Pre/Corequisites * :
Competencies:	<ol> <li>Demonstrate an understanding of victims and victims' rights.</li> <li>Explain domestic family abuse along with effective intervention and prevention strategies.</li> <li>Relate the essential characteristics of leadership.</li> <li>Analyze ethics in criminal justice and ethical situations common to criminal justice employment.</li> <li>Demonstrate various means of effective communication important to criminal justice.</li> <li>Examine positive and negative stress in criminal justice employment and effective strategies for dealing with negative stress.</li> <li>Interpret the concept of bias-motivated crime and living and working in a diverse culture.</li> <li>Explore communicating effectively with a diverse culture.</li> <li>Analyze crisis intervention skills necessary for criminal justice practitioners.</li> <li>Examine basic personality development in terms of the scientific research of Freud and Erikson.</li> <li>Summarize the symptoms and strategies for dealing with various abnormal personality types.</li> </ol>
MnTC goal areas:	None

*Can be taking as a Prerequisite or Corequisite.